Folksy Theatre tour a number of beautiful gardens throughout the UK with open-air Shakespeare productions.

Following our successful 2011 tour of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream', we will be extending next years tour and are currently looking for more gardens and open-air venues that may be suitable for our 2012 production of 'Much Ado About Nothing'.

We tour with a cast of 7 actors, doubling up to play multiple roles. We do not build a large stage or set, instead we stay true to the roots of open-air theatre, using our natural surroundings and the individual settings and features of each garden as our backdrop.

The performance is advertised as a picnic setting and audiences bring along their own food, blankets and folding chairs. There will be a 15-20 minute interval, during which the venue has the option of selling food and beverages.

We are very self sufficient and take care of the marketing, advertising and all aspects of the production. All we ask is that you display the posters and flyers we provide and mention the production on your website. We sell tickets online and at the door on the evening of the performance. It is your choice whether you would also like to have tickets available to pre-sell. The venue receives 30% of the total ticket money.

If you feel this is something you may be interested in having at your venue, or you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to contact us.
