Carpenters and Wheelwrights

A carpenter was a skilled tradesman who made, finished, and repaired wooden objects and structures, whereas a wheelwright (or wainwright) was a tradesman who built and repaired wheels. Historically, they made wheels for carts or wagons. The wheelwright was an essential member of all village communities, but with the disappearance of horse transport, and introduction of mechanisation in farming and domestic life, very few remain at work. Although the traditional market for wheelwrights' services has effectively gone, new markets have begun whereby veteran vehicles have been maintained by enthusiasts for display and demonstration purposes.

This index to Worcestershire Carpenters and Wheelwrights was collated by external researcher Barbara Wall. It is intended to assist Family Historians in researching ancestors in these professions. It covers mainly Worcestershire with some material from out of county. It dates from the early 18th century but there are gaps until 1813 when the main source of information begins with that gathered from baptism registers. Trade directories, Census Returns and some wills and deeds were also used in the creation of this index.

The Index is intended as a guide to researchers that are tracing the occupation of their ancestors. It can help provide background information on ancestors, such as names of family members and business partners.

The sources used to create this index are held as follows:

Trade Directories – both branches but coverage better at the Worcestershire History Centre. Please check the online catalogue for details of holdings.

Parish Registers on microfilm – both branches. Please check separate handlists for details.

Census Returns on microfilm/fiche and Ancestry.co.uk – both branches. Please check separate handlists for details.

Wills on microfilm – Worcestershire History Centre. Please check separate handlists for details.
