

Who might need help

Child

Young
Person

Adult

Older
Adult

It is important to recognise that people of all ages and abilities may require mealtime assistance based on their individual needs. When working with people, it is important not to make assumptions and to encourage independence where appropriate. Assistance is not always physical; you may be providing support through encouragement.