What is a Private Training Provider?

Private Training Providers, also known as independent learning providers or independent training providers (ITPs), offer vocational courses and training to young people and adults. After studying with a private training provider, you will be able to go to college, university and/or work.

What do they offer?

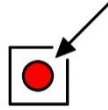

Independent training providers offer courses in a range of vocational subjects and work preparation such as traineeships, apprenticeships, and supported internships.

Training Providers don't only support young people and adults looking to gain new skills; they also support employers. This is often provided by working closely with employers of apprentices.
